

2008 Burgundy en primeur tasting

12-8pm Wednesday 10 February 2010
£25 per person inc VAT

So, like last year, it's snowing, just as it did on our producers way back in January when they were supposed to be taking our samples to Dijon, a distant city where many have never ventured.

As is the Burgundy – and now our – custom, we have laid out the tasting in conventional, clockwise, reds first fashion. As you will see on some of the bottles, these samples are a mixture of barrel, tank and finished wines. Not all producers label like this and some don't even bother to put a relevant year on them – thanks for the anxiety attack, Mme Lignier!

Please remember, particularly with the reds, that in five – or certainly ten – years, they won't be tasting like this at all. These wines can be quite sulky and reductive and full of gas, so usually fail to be seductive and charming at this stage. But look first at texture, then balance, and try to take your time.

You aren't in the press corps so don't have to rush off and upload masses of timely but incoherent tasting notes to your website!
